

Violent Episode Ends

Disorders Marked Students' Hearing On Cuba Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the most violent episodes in the controversial history of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has ended.

A beatnik-tinged tide of students and their followers has decamped from Congress after two days of hearings on a trip which 50 of their number made to Cuba this summer despite a State Department ban.

Time and again, outbursts of applause and shouts of "tyranny" caused scores of policemen to swoop down and wrestle them out of the Old House Office building.

Each time they landed on the sidewalk they cried out against "police brutality." There was no doubt the cops did not treat them gently.

Many wore beards, denim work shirts, blue jeans and sandals.

The most serious outbreak came Friday.

Kathy Prenskey was asked if she was a member of a Progressive Labor Student Club, which the committee called a Communist splinter group.

Her voice trembling with emotion, she said: "Yes, because I believe socialism is the way to end racism and under socialism we can have congressmen who are truly representative and who are not elected because Negroes are not allowed to vote."

A sharp outburst of applause greeted this sally.

County Legion Sees 'Reds' Behind Riots

The Columbiana County Council of the American Legion was urged Friday night to write to Rep. Wayne L. Hays about the student riots taking place at the House Un-American Activities hearing at Washington.

Olin Sanor of Post 574 at North Georgetown urged the protest, declaring "the Legion is concerned because it feels these disturbances are Communist-inspired."

Police began grabbing the loudest clappers and hustling them toward the door. "Leave them alone," cried others. "Tyranny!" someone shouted over and over.

"Down with HUAC! Down with HUAC!" cried a youth as he was marched to the door—"HUAC" referring to House Un-American Activities Committee.

Several girls squirmed out of the grasp of the police and slumped to the floor; they started screaming outside as they were propelled down the stairs.

At least 13 persons were rushed out of the building and tossed down the front steps of the building, which is across Independence Avenue from the capitol.

Through it all the chairman, Rep. Edwin Willis, D-La., banged his gavel and called on police to remove the noisiest applauders.

He kept a rein on his temper and generally treated witnesses with politeness.

Willis also presided at the worst riot against the committee, as chairman of a subcommittee that held hearings on communism in San Francisco in 1960.

That demonstration got completely out of hand and police used firehoses to wash protesters down the steps of San Francisco's city hall. The committee backed a movie version of that riot, called "Operation Abolition," that portrayed the outbreak as being linked with Communists.

After Friday's uproar, Willis again said Communists inspired the trouble, using others as their fronts.

The avowed purpose of the hearings was to determine if new laws are needed to prevent Americans from traveling to Cuba. But much of the questioning of the committee counsel, Alfred Nittie, was aimed at linking the trip with the Progressive Labor Organization, which he said was founded by two Communists expelled from the party for deviationism.

The witnesses all tried to make these points: that there was no law against their going to Cuba, only a State Department regulation; that the right to travel is guaranteed to them under the Constitution; and that the committee is illegally prying into their private affairs and associations.

Test Treaty Debate May Be Extended

'Early And Late' Sessions Urged To Move It To Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate debate on the limited nuclear test ban treaty may extend into a third week, Sen. Mike Mansfield said today. He called for "early and late" sessions to move it toward a vote.

The Senate Democratic leader told newsmen he would prefer to have the ratification vote by next weekend but "if need be we will continue early and late sessions into the third week, including Saturdays."

The first early session will be Monday after the Senate returns from a weekend off.

The Republican and Democratic leadership had tried to speed things along by asking the Senate for unanimous consent to move from debate on the treaty itself to the resolution of ratification.

But Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who opposes the treaty, blocked the move by refusing his consent.

Thus there's no way to get a vote on pending reservations under the present parliamentary situation.

Now that the first week of debate is completed, treaty supporters have counted heads and believe they have a minimum of 80 votes, far more than the two-thirds necessary for ratification—67 if all 100 senators vote.

During the so-called great debate, proponents generally have praised the pact as a "first step" and a "ray of light." Opponents, while conceding they have little chance of defeating it, have called for reservations to the ratification.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, contended today a Soviet follow-up on the treaty could influence the 1964 election one way or the other.

Appearing on a taped radio television program, Miller, who is on the doubtful list, said that if the Russians offer some second-step agreement toward world peace after the treaty's ratification, it might help re-elect President Kennedy.

On the other hand, he said, if the Russians violate the pact, they might influence the voters to elect a Republican.

Alert Issued For Donald George, 37

Mother, Boy, 15, Shot With Rifle In Youngstown Home

A statewide alert and an intensive Columbiana County manhunt continued for a former Lisbon district parolee sought for the murder of a Youngstown mother and her 15-year-old son early today.

Rifle bullets killed the woman and boy about 1 a.m. at their South Side home in Youngstown and the alert was issued for Donald George, 37, who had been visiting the house Friday night.

Mrs. Beatrice Knight, 33, and her son, Thomas, 15, were slain in a first-floor room of their home in the Brownlee section. Her husband, Thomas, was upstairs at the time, he told police.

Coroner's investigator Stanley Goldich said a pickup order had been broadcast for George whose last known address was nearby Struthers.

Goldich said Knight told him George visited the home last night and remained downstairs with the boy watching television after the parents retired upstairs.

George and Knight worked for the same landscaping company and had been a family visitor on previous occasions, Knight told Goldich.

The father said he and his wife heard a shot downstairs and she went down to investigate and was shot.

Goldich said George, 5 foot-3 and red-haired, was driving a 10-year-old, dark green Chrysler.

The investigator said the hunted man was on probation for breaking and entering in Columbiana County.

The suspect was placed on pro-

In Birmingham Integration Protest

Pupils Urged To Get Back To Classes After Boycott

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Mayor Albert Boutwell has urged white students to get back in school after a week of boycotting classes to protest integration.

"You are not accomplishing any purpose by staying out of school," Boutwell told students who jammed his office Friday.

A 14-year-old white girl, Connie Becker, reported Friday night that a Negro youth stabbed her in the arm when the bus carrying her and other Woodlawn High band members stopped at a traffic light.

She was not hurt seriously.

Boutwell talked to some teenagers after about 500 had spent most of the day roaming from school to school trying to drum up sympathy walkouts. Boycotts continued here and in Tuskegee, but attendance improved in the three newly integrated Birmingham schools.

Police said there were complaints of Negroes throwing rocks at motorists Friday night in one area of Birmingham, but no serious incidents were reported.

In other developments:

—Gov. George Wallace said in Baltimore that President Kennedy will lose next year's election because of the racial issue. He said anyone was preferable to Kennedy. Wallace, appearing on a television panel, got both boos and applause.

—The Army said 75 Alabama National Guardsmen in the Tuskegee area would be released from standby duty at midnight, leaving only 470 on alert in Birmingham and Tuscaloosa. Kennedy federalized the guard Tuesday to block Wallace from using the soldiers to prevent integration.

Teen-age demonstrators swarmed into a Birmingham city park Friday to chant anti-integration slogans and yell after they had driven from one school to another, drawing relatively few students into the boycott.

Then 150 tried to get in Boutwell's city hall office. All but 25 were sent back outside. The mayor, who as a state senator wrote laws aimed at preserving segregation, warned the teen-agers against unruly demonstrations.

Students Riot Against Diem Rule In Viet

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Students in three south Vietnamese cities rioted today against president Ngo Dinh Diem's regime, reliable sources said.

Word that the schoolboy rebellion had spread from Saigon to the countryside came as Diem announced that martial law would end at noon Monday, after a 27 day state of siege. The announcement said all administrative functions would revert to civilian agencies.

The sources said 6,000 students in the mountain capital of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, barricaded themselves in four or five high schools in a shouting, brick-throwing demonstration that was quelled by armed Vietnamese soldiers.

Smaller demonstrations were reported in high schools in Bien Hoa, 30 miles north of Saigon, and Vinh Long in the Mekong Delta 65 miles south of Saigon.

Hundreds of students were carted away to detention camps in all three cities, informants said.

Saigon, which has been the scene of dozens of similar demonstrations in the past week, was reported quiet today as students again attended classes under armed guard.

Nearly 3,000 school pupils and university students have been arrested in Saigon. More than 1,000 were reported still in detention camps.

Reliable sources said a strike by doctors and interns in four hospitals run by the Saigon University faculty of medicine ended this morning with the release of a professor and his wife and daughter who had been arrested earlier in the week.

Martial law went into effect just before government security forces raided Buddhist pagodas last month.

Rogers Area Man Killed By Electric Wire

A 52-year-old Rogers area man was killed and his neighbor burned when they came in contact with a downed electric wire while fighting a fire on a farm near Clarkson Friday afternoon at 3:30.

The victim was Roger S. Fitzsimmons of Rogers R. D. 1. Wayne Dillon, 40, also of Rogers R. D. 1, was burned about the face and feet when he ran to give aid to Mr. Fitzsimmons. He was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital.

Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said it is believed that lightning had felled the primary wire sometime during the storm Thursday evening. Lightning had struck the pole and the wire dropped to about six feet above the ground.

Friday afternoon it started smoldering. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzsimmons noticed the smoke and ran to tell their parents.

They hurried to the scene and Mr. Fitzsimmons ran directly into the wire. It struck him on the head and death was instant, authorities said.

Dillon, a neighbor, rushed to the scene to help and was burned by the wire.

The farm is about three-eighths a mile east of Clarkson on the

Babies, Mother In Good Condition

Quints Born To Clerk's Wife In South Dakota

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) —Five babies — four girls and a boy were born today to the 30-year-old wife of a grocery shipping clerk.

Doctors said the mother, Mrs. Andrew Fischer, and the baby were all in good condition.

"I don't make the most money in the world," said the 38-year-old father. "It does present some problems — how I'm going to take care of them, along with the five we have."

The Fischers have two other sons and three daughters, the eldest 7.

The babies were delivered over a period of an hour and 40 minutes, between 1:30 a.m. and 3:10 a.m. at St. Luke's hospital.

Attending doctors described Mrs. Fischer as "pretty tired" following the five births, which required about an hour and a half but involved no surgery.

The births were about two months short of the usual nine-month gestation period. Physicians at the hospital said it is not unusual for multiple births to occur before nine months.

The babies were not weighed immediately. Mrs. Fischer's physician, Dr. James Berbos, said the births presented some difficulties because four of the children were breech deliveries, although one arrived in the usual headfirst position. In the hospital nursery this morning, however, all five babies were described as "getting along fine."

Dr. Berbos said the Fischers were told Wednesday, following an x-ray examination, that the mother was carrying quintuplets. She had entered the hospital that day, he said, because she had been having some difficulty in getting around.

"About half an hour after the doctor told her," Fischer said of his wife and the news that she was to bear the five children, "she started crying, and she cried all night."

As for himself, the 38-year-old father said: "I don't know how I took the news. In fact, I don't think I came to for a couple of days."

The first of the five babies was born about 1:30 a.m. (CST) today. Fischer was called and reached the hospital half an hour later. He said he spent the rest of the night smoking two packs of cigarettes and drinking a lot of coffee.

"I don't usually drink coffee," he remarked, "except for breakfast at the warehouse."

Of the five children the Fischers had before today, the eldest is Danny, 7, the youngest Denise, 3½. In between are Charlotte, 6, Julie, 5, and Evelyn, 4½.

Atomic Blast Blamed For Earthquake

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An earthquake shook this gambling resort city just after a powerful nuclear blast was fired underground 80 miles away—and an authority says the blast "almost certainly" caused the tremor.

In Las Vegas, where the most carefully studied natural phenomena are the laws of chance, the citizens took the shaking with characteristic aplomb.

No one was heard to complain to the Atomic Energy Commission, which touched off two underground tests Friday. Few were bothered to call police or newspapers. No damage was reported.

The quake was powerful enough to be measured in Berkeley, Pasadena, and San Diego, Calif.

The larger of the two tests came at 10 a.m. In Pasadena, the California Institute of Technology registered the tremor seconds later.

R. T. Enochs Named New City Fireman

Richard Thomas Enochs, 211 E. 3rd St., today was appointed as a city fireman by Safety - Service Director Robert Owen to fill the vacancy created by the promotion of Gerald Goodballet to assistant fire chief.

Enochs ranked first on the fire department eligibility list after scoring the top grade of 104 in an examination conducted several months ago by the Municipal Civil Service Commission, Owen said.

The new fireman will begin his duties Monday, start of a new pay period, and also will work in general on Tuesday before being assigned to the crew headed by Asst. Fire Chief Alfred Van Dyne. Chief Charles Bryan said.

Enochs, who is single, was discharged about a year ago from the Navy and has been employed only part - time since then, the director said. He received some fire training in the Navy and also has some experience with the Liverpool East volunteer fire department in Dixonville.

Goodballet was promoted to assistant chief late in August to succeed David Anderson after scoring the highest grade in a promotional examination conducted by the Civil Service Commission.

County Has Chilly Low Of 36 Near Freezing

Columbiana County got a chilly preview of autumn this morning as the temperature dipped to 36, only four degrees above freezing.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, recorded the mark while downtown East Liverpool had 42 at 7 a. m. Copeland said there was no frost in his area and if any did develop in the county it would have been light.

Another cool night is due with a low of 42 to 49 by Sunday morning. Tomorrow will be sunny and warmer. Today's high range will be 67 to 70 under sunny skies for pleasant weather. Autumn is due officially Sept. 23.

2 Presidential Possibilities

DENVER (AP)—Two Eastern governors considered Republican presidential possibilities, Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, met today with GOP chief executives of 10 other states.

The huddle is in a region where Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona appears to be a front runner for the nomination—although the governors themselves were admonished to stay away from talk of candidates and instead to discuss principles.

The Rocky Mountain News published a poll citing Goldwater as the favorite of 40 per cent of Colorado's Republican voters. Rockefeller was listed as the choice of 25 per cent and Scranton of 2 per cent.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, who did not attend the meeting, was listed as first choice of 16 per cent. The only other possibility listed was Harold E. Stassen, who had 3 per cent. The other voters were listed as undecided.

Rockefeller And Scranton Talk To GOP Governors

The Republican National Chairman, Rep. William Miller, R-N.Y., insisted at a news conference that the nation has more to fear from the "radical left" than the "radical right," and declared that right wing groups pose no problem for the Republicans. Several governors agreed.

Rockefeller remarked on arrival that "radicals on both the right and left are alien to American thought and the basic traditions of our country."

The occasion for the get-together of governors was the first meeting of the Republican Governors Association, organized during the last National Conference of Governors at Miami. The chairman, Gov. Robert Smylie of Idaho, indicated he hopes the organization can be perfected into a unit which will help the GOP recapture state capitols and county courthouses in 1964. The Republicans hold 16 of the 50 governorships.

Hlista Tells Of Trying To 'Escape' Dad

BEAVER — Walter Hlista Jr., 19, took the stand today at his trial for murder and detailed efforts to escape his severe home-life which the defense has been picturing as the motive for the slaying of his father.

Young Hlista, accused of first degree murder in the shooting of Police Chief Walter Hlista, 44, last Feb. 28 in their Harmony Township home, said he once tried to drink bleach "but couldn't swallow it."

Young Hlista, who showed little emotion as he began testifying, said he once stole a gun vending machine and auto hubcaps "because 'I wanted to get caught and put in jail' to escape his father's harsh treatment. Defense witnesses said earlier his father mistreated him repeatedly.

The jury hearing the case before Judge Robert McCreary in Beaver County Court, will be kept in the Courthouse over the weekend for the resumption of the trial Monday. The closing testimony may last through Tuesday.

His young brother, Ronald, 16, was on the stand Friday and related events the night of the shooting. The brother also was wounded by the defendant.

Describing the night his father was shot to death, the younger son said he was in the bathroom when his brother appeared in the doorway, holding a gun.

Ronald said he ran down to the basement, but didn't realize he had been wounded until he felt a numbness in his back. He was shot in the back and elbow and recovered.

Under cross-examination, Ronald said he fabricated a story about an intruder coming to the house, killing his father, and wounding himself. He made up the story out of love for his brother, and because Walter Jr. didn't know what he was doing, the youngest son said.

Crash Hurts 2 In Hancock

Two Hancock County teen-agers were hospitalized today with injuries received in a traffic crash Friday night at 6:05 in the Chester area.

A jockey at Waterford Park escaped unhurt in another mishap last night, the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny reported.

Gary Wayne Lawson, 16, of 21 Washington St., Newell and Miss Beverly Hulme of Johnsonville Rd., Chester, were hurt when the boy lost control on loose material and the car came to rest against a tree.

Sheriff's deputies said the mishap happened on Johnsonville Rd. 500 feet off Route 30.

Miss Hulme, 17, daughter of William Hulme, suffered lacerations of the chin and cheek, and a contusion of the left forehead and was in "satisfactory" condition at City Hospital.

Lawson, son of Charles Lawson, suffered a severe laceration of the arm and was in "good" condition.

Deputies estimated $900 damage to the 1961 sports coupe.

In the other mishap at 6:25, 200 feet south of the junction of State Route 2 and Route 30 near Chester, John F. McMullen, 23, of Brooklyn, N. Y., escaped unhurt when his car slid across Route 2 and hit a fence at the Walt Elliott farm.

At one time he lived about three miles west of Lisbon.

His mother, Mrs. O. W. Conrad, resides on Scroggs Rd., Elkton R. D. 1.

Authorities said a car that was owned by the brother was found west of Lisbon.

The alert broadcast for George said he is "considered dangerous." He was believed to be still carrying the rifle. He was wearing dungarees when last seen.

Mental Test Set In Slaying

NEW CUMBERLAND — Psychiatric examinations were approved today in Hancock County Circuit Court for Robert Miller Young, 34, indicted by the September Grand Jury in connection with the rifle slaying of a neighbor.

Judge James G. McClure granted motions by Young's legal counsel for examination.

The defendant is to be examined by a court-appointed psychiatrist, and another to be hired by himself, it was agreed.

Judge McClure set Nov. 1 as the date for Young to enter a plea to a charge of murder of George Merckich, 49, Aug. 3. Young is accused of shooting Mr. Merckich three times with a rifle.

Psychiatric examinations were not asked of Leonard Brown of Weirton, indicted for murder in the fatal stabbing of Floyd Cochran, 36, at Brown's home May 5.

Judge McClure sentenced Roger Murray of Steubenville a one-year term in County Jail after the defendant pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny.

Murray had been sentenced earlier to 1-10 years in prison for grand larceny but had filed a plea for probation. Probation was denied, and the one-year jail term was meted out when the defendant pleaded guilty to the lesser charge. He was indicted by the April Grand Jury.

Demurrer Filed Over Police Case

Atty. William Bush of Wellsville Friday filed a demurrer in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon in the mandamus action of Charles Amato against Mayor William Daugherty and Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare in their appointment of a patrolman to the police force.

Today was the deadline for the filing. No date has been set for a hearing in the latest phase of the dispute and it possibly may not be set for at least a month.

Amato asked a mandamus Aug. 26 after the mayor and director appointed Gene K. Hamilton to the force. Amato had a higher Civil Service score and also cited his previous experience with the department as an extra.

Hamilton resigned from the force Sept. 3.

Hamilton was appointed to fill a vacancy created when Joseph Heiney resigned in June. When no action was taken on the appointment, Heiney filed a mandamus to force the appointment. A Common Pleas Court hearing was held and the mayor and director were ordered to fill the vacancy.

They delayed for a week before making the appointment and in the meantime a contempt charge was filed against them by the attorneys for Heiney as they did not act "forthwith" as directed by the court. This hearing has not been held.

Demonstrations Of Instruments Set For Students

Instrument demonstrations, in conjunction with the annual recruiting drive for beginning students in instrumental music in East Liverpool city schools, will be held at East Junior High School Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the visual education room.

At Westgate, the demonstration will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. There will be displays of instruments and talks on the rental program at the meetings.

Parents and their children are urged to attend one of the two meetings, if the student is to begin this year in instrumental music. Vincent Maola Jr., band director and instrumental supervisor, announced.

Fourth graders may begin on a string instrument and fifth and sixth graders may start on a band or orchestra instrument.

Instruments may be rented at any local stores, following the demonstrations.

The instructors, Donald Adams, Archie Myers and George Schweizer, are contacting students and recommending instruments.

Agreement Without Illusion

Only one thing saves the nuclear test ban treaty the United States Senate intends to ratify this week.

No one has any illusions about it.

It is known the Soviet Union will resume the kind of nuclear testing banned by the treaty whenever it feels like it. Communist practice calls for breaking agreements at will. There is no honor in the political code of Marxism.

No one doubts that the only reason Russia is trying to slow down the nuclear arms race at this time is because its experts believe it is ahead and they don't want the United States to catch up. The Soviet Union is willing to take a chance on France, which has rejected the idea of hobbling itself.

What, then, causes even so staunch an opponent as Sen. Goldwater to say the nuclear test ban treaty is going to be ratified regardless of misgivings?

THE EXPLANATION is that enough senators believe the United States stands to gain more than it stands to lose by gambling that Russia will live up to a nuclear test ban agreement because of self-interest.

There is no Blue Fairy fluttering overhead, no Good Fairy waiting to touch the proceedings with a magic wand. This is an agreement without illusion.

The United States knows it can be betrayed but is risking a sell-out because of evidence the Kremlin has good and sufficient reasons for wanting to keep the agreement.

This has nothing to do with a surge of love for America, or a sudden glow of respect for the security non-Marxist man.

It has nothing to do with conscience, honor, humanitarianism, or any virtues held in esteem by the non-Communist world.

IT IS CONCERNED only with the selfish interests of the ruling clique of the Marxist monopoly that governs Russia.

It is as if the United States and its allies were making a truce with marauders—a truce the marauders could be expected to keep because they might lose something precious if they broke it.

The United States may lose something precious by keeping a nuclear test ban truce. This is the misgiving of witnesses who have told senators it is dangerous for the United States to forego nuclear testing in the air.

Against this danger is arrayed the danger of continued testing by both the United States and Russia—an appraisal of comparative dangers. Two-thirds of the senators who must make the appraisal are reported ready to give the nod to what they believe is the lesser danger—a test ban.

They are under no illusions. They believe the treaty is worth making only because they believe the Kremlin has its own reasons for wanting a recess in nuclear testing too.

High-Flying And Low Politics

Rep. Vanik's accusation against the Timken Roller Bearing Co. in connection with Sen. Goldwater's flight to Cleveland last Monday is an example of politics at its very lowest ebb.

Democratic Rep. Vanik's idea, of course, was to embarrass the Republican senator and his friend who provided the transportation. He tried to make a tax case out of it.

It turned out, however—and it now appears that Rep. Vanik should have known it—that a personally owned plane, not a company plane, made the flight.

Mr. Vanik's criticism left him wide open for a blow against the Democrats by Sen. Goldwater for the very same thing—namely President Kennedy's profligate use of taxpayer-provided transportation.

Most Americans have not voiced serious criticism against the President's need for adequate transportation. But the fact remains, as Sen. Goldwater pointed out, that Mr. Kennedy and his family and friends continually use, at taxpayers' expense, an $8 million jet plane, three other jets, 10 helicopters, an Air Force DC-8B, a 21-foot automobile, a special railroad car and a couple of yachts. They are used for political, as well as official, business.

The President also has other Air Force planes for his use to serve him when he's vacationing.

So here is Sen. Goldwater, an Air Force Reserve general, being criticized, along with his friend, for using the friend's private plane in which no tax deduction is involved.

Rep. Vanik should be shrewder than to lay himself open for a rebuttal such as occurred this week.

Go Get 'Em, Governor

We feel like standing up in the bleachers and waving our Taxpayer pennant for Gov. Rhodes in his investigation of the prolonged absence of a woman member of the Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission.

Gloria Karpinski Battista left her $12,000-a-year appointive job last Aug. 5 to get married and has been gone ever since. She says she intends to be gone seven weeks altogether and explains she missed her vacations the last two years. Two weeks have been customary for members of this commission.

This could be her "out," but it won't square anything for taxpayers, who are in a mood to get red-necked about flagrant abuse of public trust by politicians and their appointees.

It is intolerable when people performing public service arrogate special privileges to themselves. No private employee would knock off for weeks at a time without being clearly entitled to the privilege.

Yet, public officials repeatedly nip off on prolonged vacations while living off public payrolls. And when it's time to start electioneering, they fly away from duty like migratory birds and come home to roost only when it suits them.

But they do not forego their salaries — never.

They just duck out on their jobs.

Gov. Rhodes himself, we recall, was running for governor a few years ago while serving in the office of state auditor, and he couldn't be in two places at the same time.

Education Begins At Home

District mothers and dads who breathed a cautious sigh as the September term of school began last week are learning again that the school bell does not signal peace and quiet in all respects.

The season has also started for Parent-Teacher Associations, music associations, athletic boosters, sports events, club activities, teacher conferences, class parties and dances, trips to the dentist and doctor, shopping tours, and on and on.

Parental responsibility does not end when Johnny—newly clothed, teeth sparkling, fully immunized and oriented to be courteous and attentive — is dispatched to the school bus.

Mothers and dads owe it to Johnny themselves to participate in the school functions where their aid is needed, to keep in touch with the teachers, to understand the classroom programs and changes and to know school policy and objectives.

Education, like charity, begins at home and must be a continuing process involving the home. So now would be a good time to check the next PTA meeting date. . .

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

When people don't understand something, they usually get mad or poke fun at it, all except a few scholars and dedicated types who try to understand it, instead.

Take the moon, for instance.

Half the people are peeved over the effort to get there and half spoof it as a big joke. The rest of the people are going right ahead, to try to go to see, like the sailors of old.

As a type who wavers between optimism and pessimism, I am all for space exploration but have always wondered why the earth itself was not more deeply explored.

Go ahead and put me on the dirty end of the stick, along with that old saying: "Two men stood looking through the bars; one saw the mud, the other the stars."

SPENDING BILLIONS of dollars on space could be interpreted as man's eternal striving for the heavens. But then you already know there are "Acres of Diamonds" in your backyard.

It would be nice to know what is upstairs, but most of us aren't going to get up there, so we might as well face conditions down below.

There has been conjecture that if the heat deep inside the earth could be harnessed, we would have a permanent source of power.

And if you ever think about the military advantages of space control, think of the military possibilities of controlling the physical center of the earth. You could attack anyone in any direction. Just push a button and give the enemy a hotfoot.

NUCLEAR SUBMARINES armed with missiles have about replaced aircraft carriers and could be taken as an example of going beneath the surface for military strength, closer to home than, say, Mars.

Space explorers are grabbing the headlines and the lion's share of the available cash. If you want to, you can take this as an appeal to leap into the fray in your customary role as a supporter of the underdog — the earth-borers.

Like differences between the bears and bulls of Wall Street and among elevator riders, whether to go up or down has always been controversial.

With the schools and colleges reopening for another year, students will be studying space, the earth and their own scholastic ups and downs.

YOU AND I may lament it at our age but the current crop of students has been given two of the strongest arguments for education for "them as wants it."

One recent report said new knowledge is coming along so fast that a topnotch education is more valuable than 20 years of experience in a given field.

Another report said computers and electronic machines are helping to increase knowledge 10 times faster than before so science will advance in the next 20 years as much as it did in the last 200 years.

Change Proposed For Press Talk

By Raymond Moley

I confess that I have never had any interest in attending a presidential press conference. I have never attended one, even when as a public official assisting President Roosevelt I worked in and out of the White House every day.

But since I have been writing professionally on public affairs for newspapers and my favorite magazine for 30 years this month, I have a number of reflections and suggestions which may be of interest, even though some newspapermen will not agree with them.

Mr. Tom Wicker, who covers the White House beat for the New York Times, recently published an article which reflects some of the reasons for dissatisfaction with these exercises in the Kennedy administration.

He says that the Kennedy press conferences are held not primarily to inform, but to expose and brighten the Kennedy image over the air waves.

The name of the show should be, he says, "Young President Makes Good."

HE CONCLUDES by saying: "Already most reporters at a Presidential press conference feel too much like spear carriers in 'Cyrano de Bergerac'."

Wicker makes a real point. The reporters are there to help expose the President. The President is not there to help the reporters.

But, Mr. Wicker! How could you ever have had the idea that this President, or any President in recent times, has done anything beyond the line of his legal and constitutional responsibilities except to project to the public a fine image of himself and his policies?

Reporters are a means to that end. And most reporters around the White House are happy participants in the image-making.

Roosevelt staged his press conferences before there was direct exposure to the public through television or radio. They were not even reported in full in the newspapers.

The major purpose that the maestro had in mind was to win the personal affection of the working newspaper reporters and often to win them away from their publishers.

The conferences were in his office. The reporters stood crowded together in that limited space. But close to his desk were the Roosevelt favorites who asked no embarrassing questions and laughed loudly at the President's habitually corny jokes.

The malcontent who stood back in the ranks would find his pointed question answered by a wise-crack.

AT THE PRESENT time it should be realized by television viewers that this show is to display a man who has all the answers. It's like the vaudeville stunt of the man with a magic memory who is also a lightning calculator. It is not a serious exposition of over-all policies.

No president should be expected to know all the answers. His job should be to offer general policies and principles — if he has any. Specifics are to be filled in by Cabinet officers or other subordinates.

Since the press is a mighty arm of public service and the White House correspondents are important fingers on that arm, there should be some concerted action by those individuals, as a group and an organization, to make the presidential conference worth their time.

They might, as an organized group, appoint a small committee to receive and sift written questions from all their colleagues. If necessary, the members of this committee could make up some of the questions themselves.

The questions thus selected and written should be organized to bring out a few very important subjects which the President should be expected to explain.

THE QUESTIONS should be submitted as the consensus of the entire group to the presidential press secretary in sufficient time before the conference to allow careful answers to be prepared.

Perhaps, as Wicker says, this would be dull. But a president's utterances are not to provide amusement. They are to enlighten the public.

Hit-or-miss questions elicited, as they are now, by the pointing of the presidential finger could be eliminated. Most of that kind are not very much to the point anyhow. And only a few can be asked.

It's time for the press—and by this I mean publishers, editors, and reporters—to assert its right to pertinent information. It's time to stop being a pawn in the executive's political operations.

American Labor

By Joel Seldin

Ten United Auto Workers officials, discussing recently what is wrong with American unions, confided they cannot depend on their members' loyalty because managements have stolen away from the unions the issue of concern for the welfare of the workers.

The unions will have to find something more than wages, hours and working conditions to fight for, they thought, if the average worker's interest in unionism is to be revived.

The discussion was an attempt to revive theoretical thinking about labor problems among union leaders. It was organized by the center for the Study of Democratic Institutions the principal activity of the Fund for the Republic.

The union leaders, most of whom were identified with the organization of the CIO in the 1930s, vehemently deplored the "conformity" and "identification" of the Establishment of unions today.

However, they withheld their names and were identified only by numbers in the record of their discussion.

"All the things we fought for the corporation is now giving the workers," said UAW No. 4. "What we have to find are other things the workers want which the employer is not willing to give him, and we have to develop our program around those things as reasons for belonging to the union. We're searching. We're searching."

UAW NO. 5 suggested that the problem of worker apathy to unionism arose because "we have raised the trade union member in many instances practically to a middle-class status."

Several of the participants noted that labor's declining militancy seemed to have begun with the expulsion from the CIO of the Communist-led unions. UAW No. 5 thought it was "incumbent upon the victorious forces to put something in there to fill the vacuum that was created. This was never done."

The result, he said, is felt clearly in the lack of young union leaders. "All too often, even in the local unions, if some young guy rears his head up, somebody lops it off," he said. "And what eventually occurs in this vacuum is the young people turn to the corporation."

UAW No. 5 described his background as the non-Communist "left." He felt that if unions are to "recapture the spark . . . I can't see what it is going to be except to get back to a class-struggle concept, even though it may not be along the classic pattern that we once followed."

He proposed that "the future of America . . . cannot lie . . . completely in the hands of the profit motive" if young people are to be expected to make a career of unionism as an ideal. He spoke of "social goals that are not on the horizon of either the Republican or the Democratic party."

UAW No. 10 agreed that labor cannot depend on either of the two major parties "because we see laws being passed every year in the states or in Congress that are more and more restrictive of the labor movement." The answer, he thought, might be a Labor Party.

Kennedy's Answer

By David Lawrence

President Presents Tax Plan Reasoning

President Kennedy, in a speech last Tuesday to a national conference of businessmen here, indicated that he is, in effect, up against an old dilemma in public life — he will be criticized if he gets his tax bill passed by Congress and criticized if he doesn't.

Mr. Kennedy, however, being an astute and resourceful politician, has a ready answer. He hopes to prove that in either contingency the country will be better off than it has been on the economic side. He says, for instance: "Excluding war years, this nation has had a recession on the average every 42 months, since the second world war, or every 44 months since the end of World War I. By January, it will have been 44 months since the last recession began."

"I do not say that a recession next year is either inevitable, without a tax cut, or impossible with one. I do know that the prompt enactment of this bill, making certain both immediate and prospective tax reduction, will improve business conditions, increase consumer and investment incentives, and make the most of the anti-recession thrust that this tax cut can provide."

The President adds that to wait till next year to enact the tax-cut bill "would be to court uncertainty, inadequacy and perhaps total failure."

It's plain that Mr. Kennedy wants the bill passed during 1963 if it is at all possible. He is betting on improved business conditions to win him reelection in November 1964.

IT'S NATURAL for him, politically speaking, to wish to have the full effect of any tax cut felt in the business world beginning in the first quarter of 1964 rather than in the middle of 1964.

If Congress balks, the President and his speechwriters are ready to place the blame on the Republicans, especially if there are any signs of a recession. Conservative Democrats who vote against the President on major issues are rarely mentioned as being responsible for administration setbacks in Congress.

The Republicans, of course, will quote the President's words that a recession is likely every 42 or 44 months anyway.

Mr. Kennedy argues that the tax cut shouldn't be conditioned on any fixed budget or on reduction of expenditures. He speaks of "unavoidable" increases and contends that defense, the space program and increases in interest on the national debt force the budget upward despite efforts to economize.

He promises in general terms to restrain spending and says that budget estimates are difficult to make because they depend on "dozens of unpredictable contingencies."

He insists that taxpayers, "uncertain of receiving the full benefits of the bill, would hold back on their investment and expansion outlays, thus retarding revenues and enlarging the debt."

THERE'S NOTHING new in these arguments. Every president has been up against uncertainties when legislation affecting economic conditions has come up for consideration in Congress.

Unfortunately, the experts on economics in the presidential entourage rarely take into account the basic factors of psychology and lack of confidence which are at the root of business recessions.

Mr. Kennedy furnished a sensational example of this when he cracked down on the steel companies in 1962 as they tried to adjust their prices to meet increased wage costs. Then, a year later, he offered no objection to price rises called "selective," which was what they would have been the year before, too, had they been permitted.

The economic life of the country is dependent on confidence by businessmen that they will be able to earn equitable returns for their investors. Otherwise, expansion is impeded. Investor confidence has become a necessity. Recessions come when wage rates are forced upward faster than they can be absorbed by price increases.

There are competitive factors, to be sure, and American business to some extent today feels the effect of foreign goods that come into American markets as well as restrictions being imposed on the free flow of capital across the oceans.

THE PRESIDENT is convinced that a tax cut is the key to economic prosperity. Some kind of tax reduction is coming but its extent is uncertain today. The amount of it will be small, relatively speaking, in financial benefit to business directly, but the administration is sure that consumer spending will be greatly stimulated by a tax cut.

This assumes, of course, that all the tax-cut money will be spent. Many people, however, still put aside money in savings for "rainy days."

Some stimulus may be expected but it could be offset by a stagnation due to a lack of confidence in planning expansion based on a temporary boom, the benefits of which might be exhausted in a year or two.

Businessmen will be grateful for whatever cuts in taxes are made, but they cannot plan their outlays for plant and equipment on what has been called "a one-time shot in the arm."

Businessmen have to worry about economic conditions that may arise even after Mr. Kennedy may have gotten through the 1964 election campaign.

Potters Turn Fumbles Into TD's To Halt Midland, 30-12

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Whether Friday the 13th had anything to do with it or not, Midland Coach Charlie Polce saw his Leopards run into some unlucky breaks last night.

Midland coughed up three costly fumbles which turned an even gridiron contest into a 30-12 victory for the East Liverpool Potters.

Another fine turnout of some 5,500 fans poured into Patterson Field to see East Liverpool win its second straight game in jumping off to its best start in five seasons.

THE POTTERS turned two first period fumbles into touchdowns with both bobbles coming deep in Midland territory. The third costly mistake came in the third quarter when the Leopards were engineering a drive and a possible score but fumbled on the Potter 18.

Two Potters combined to tally four touchdowns. Co-captain "Bolting" Bob Bowyer, an ex-Midlandite who played junior high ball there, crashed over for a pair from two and three yards out and shift Bob Forzano, East Liverpool's quarterback, dove over from the one and stepped off seven yards for another TD.

THIS PAIR also combined for most of East Liverpool's yardage on the ground. Forzano, who is turning in to a fine broken field runner weaving his way through the opposition's secondary, picked up 85 yards rushing and threw for another 57 yards completing 4 of 12 passes.

Bowyer, running from his fullback spot, ripped off 83 yards in 17 carries and was the Potters' bread-and-butter man when it came to gaining that short yardage when a first down was needed.

It was nothing new to Midland fans, but Potter followers got a glimpse of one of the hardest running backs seen for sometime on the local gridiron in the person of Mighty Mike Krivoshia.

MOVING like a steamroller, Krivoshia with or without blockers, ripped off long chunks of yardage especially in the first half.

Krivoshia set up Midland's first touchdown with a fine display of running and scored the second six pointer in the fourth quarter. The 200-pound halfback ripped off 123 yards for his night's work with 102 yards coming in the first half.

Following the contest, Hedmond had high praise for Krivoshia. "He's terrific. Krivoshia is probably the hardest running back we will face all season. That Zigerelli also did a fine job tonight."

THE POTTER coach did not hesitate in point out: "We capitalized on their fumbles tonight and came back strong in the second half."

"After our victory last week over Beaver Local I was afraid of a big letdown and I didn't feel we were quite ready for this game, but the boys were."

"I thought Bowyer was running hard and I must say something about Earl Olmstead's fine defensive work. I was not as happy with our passing tonight as I was last week. It was not as sharp," Hedmond added.

Bruce Burbick shone on defense for the Potters but the Midland line seemed to be hitting a little quicker than the Blue and White on occasions. East Liverpool's secondary also was up for the task last night in stopping Midland runners near the line of scrimmage.

POLCE, who saw his team win its opener in easy fashion over McKeesport Catholic, had said all week that "the team that makes the least mistakes would win it" and he was 100 per cent right. Midland made three bad fumbles and that was it.

While Krivoshia was the main spring of the Midland offense, he was also the ballcarrier who fumbled bled to set up East Liverpool's first touchdown.

Bowyer, Forzano Score Two Each; Krivoshia Sparks Leopards

Krivoshia fumbled on the Potter 14 and the alert Randy Stover pounced on the ball for the recovery.

FORZANO set the stage for the first touchdown when on first down he weaved his way around the left side for 12 yards to the Midland 2.

A play later Bowyer behind some good blocking by the middle of the Potter line went over for the first TD. A halfback pass play going from Olmstead to Bob Mercer netted the two - point conversion.

East Liverpool kicked off but the ball ended up in the arms of the Potters' Olmstead.

SUBSTITUTE back Steve Alston, a sophomore, fumbled the kickoff after being hit and the ball squirted into Olmstead's arms on the Midland 25.

After Forzano picked up five yards in four carries to the Midland one. From here, Forzano stepped around the left side, found an opening and dove in for the score.

Another good conversion came when Forzano flipped a pass to John DiPasquale for a 16-0 bulge.

KRIVOSHIA went to work to spark Midland's 62-yard touchdown drive. The drive opened with a 12-yard pass from Ron Dominici to Krivoshia carrying to midfield.

Krivoshia then went 25 yards, fighting tacklers off all the way with very little blocking. The talented halfback roared 17 yards the next time to the five, then Zigerelli went to the three before Krivoshia put the ball on the one.

After the Potter line held by stopping Dominici on a quarter-back sneak, Zigerelli on a fourth down play hit the left side to score with 7:31 remaining in the first half. A pass was broken up to prevent the conversion.

BEFORE the half ended, the Potters marched to the Midland 22 but Zigerelli intercepted a pass thrown by Forzano to half the threat.

The turning point of the game came early in the third quarter. Midland apparently returned to the field to start the second half with the idea of settling down to the business at hand.

On the first play from scrimmage Zigerelli, the short, stout halfback rammed 45 yards on a reverse to the ELHS 21. Krivoshia advanced the ball to the 18 but Dominici fumbled and big Ron Echols recovered the ball.

EAST LIVERPOOL then set sail for a 72-yard march led by the running of Bowyer and the sharp passing of Forzano. Three passes, one to Bill Hall for 16, another to Stover for nine and a 22-yarder to DiPasquale, put the Potters on the Leopard five.

Bowyer carried twice and on the second attempt hit paydirt. A passing conversion failed.

In the fourth quarter, Bowyer's 41-yard touchdown gallop was called back by a penalty but the Potters wasted little time getting the six points back.

THE MARCH had started on the East Liverpool 48 interrupted by a 15-yard clipping penalty which nullified Bowyer's touchdown. Four plays later the Potters were knocking on the door again from the Midland seven where Forzano shot around the right side for East Liverpool's final TD with 6:30 remaining. Olmstead banged his way through several defenders for the conversion.

Midland came back to drive 71 yards for its final touchdown which was helped by a personal foul penalty that put the ball on the Potter six-yard line. A play later, Krivoshia roared around the left side for the touchdown. The Potters stopped a run by Dominici on the conversion.

Long TD Jaunts Mark Lisbon's 38-16 Win Over Tigers

Rose Hits Paydirt For 3 Tallies; Reed Scores On 80-Yard Run

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Retaliating quickly after yielding a first period touchdown, smooth-operating Lisbon went on to score a 38-16 triumph over Wellsville High Friday night in a battle marked by long runs.

Coach Bud Bucher's Blue Devils got by weak but game Wellsville with about as much ease as expected in their home debut before a crowd of 3,000. Lisbon was a two-touchdown favorite.

Providing the 114th victory for the veteran Bucher in his 18th year at the helm, the Blue Devils flashed a smooth ground attack that accounted for 336 yards, and a potent aerial assault that led to one touchdown.

Halfback Dave Rose, shifty and hard running, scored three times for Lisbon and tacked on conversion to highlight the Lisbon victory. Rose tallied twice in Lisbon's 28-8 inaugural victory over Carrollton last week.

WHILE outplayed throughout, Coach Ken Woods' inexperienced Tigers had their moments of glory also, shaking up Lisbon with a quick touchdown in the opening quarter on an 80-yard run by speedster Jim Reed.

Reed, one of the fastest backs in the county, burst into the Lisbon secondary on a dive play and outraced the pursuing defenders to give Wellsville a 6-0 lead with 6:49 left in the first quarter. Fullback Dale Mobley combined with quarterback Chris Thornton on an option play to account for the extra points.

Lisbon shifted its touchdown machinery into high gear in the second quarter and scored twice to pull away to a 24-8 halftime lead.

Rose got one on a three-yard run around left end, and added another on a slant through left tackle with 1:10 left before halftime. Quarterback Dave McPherson passed to end Paul McGaffick for one conversion, and halfback Tim Bucher ran over another.

Still, a 24-8 lead by Lisbon didn't look too bad for Wellsville at halftime. The clasher came a few minutes after Lisbon received the second half kickoff, however.

ROSE FLOATED to the right sideline, caught a short flat pass from the quarterback, and squirmed loose for 52 yards and a touchdown to give Lisbon a 30-8 lead. On the throwing end of the pass was the versatile Bucher—son of the Lisbon coach—who plays both halfback and quarterback.

That play really hurt Wellsville as the Tigers got a break a few minutes later and tallied on a thrilling touchdown run by Thornton, the rookie quarterback who performs with a whole lot of poise.

INTERRUPTING an option play tried by Bucher, Thornton caught the ball in mid-air at the Wellsville 35 and went 65 yards to paydirt at 6:44 of the third quarter. He added the extra point on a run and Lisbon was in front by 30-16.

Following an exchange of punts, Lisbon added its last touchdown on a 67-yard run by Bucher on a keeper play. Peruchetti added the conversion on a run for a 38-16 lead.

Before Lisbon gained possession to set up Bucher's touchdown run, sideline quarterbacks for Wellsville probably were buzzing to themselves over the play which turned the ball over to Lisbon.

FACED with a third down and 10 situation in the fourth quarter and two touchdowns behind, Wellsville quick-kicked from its own 32.

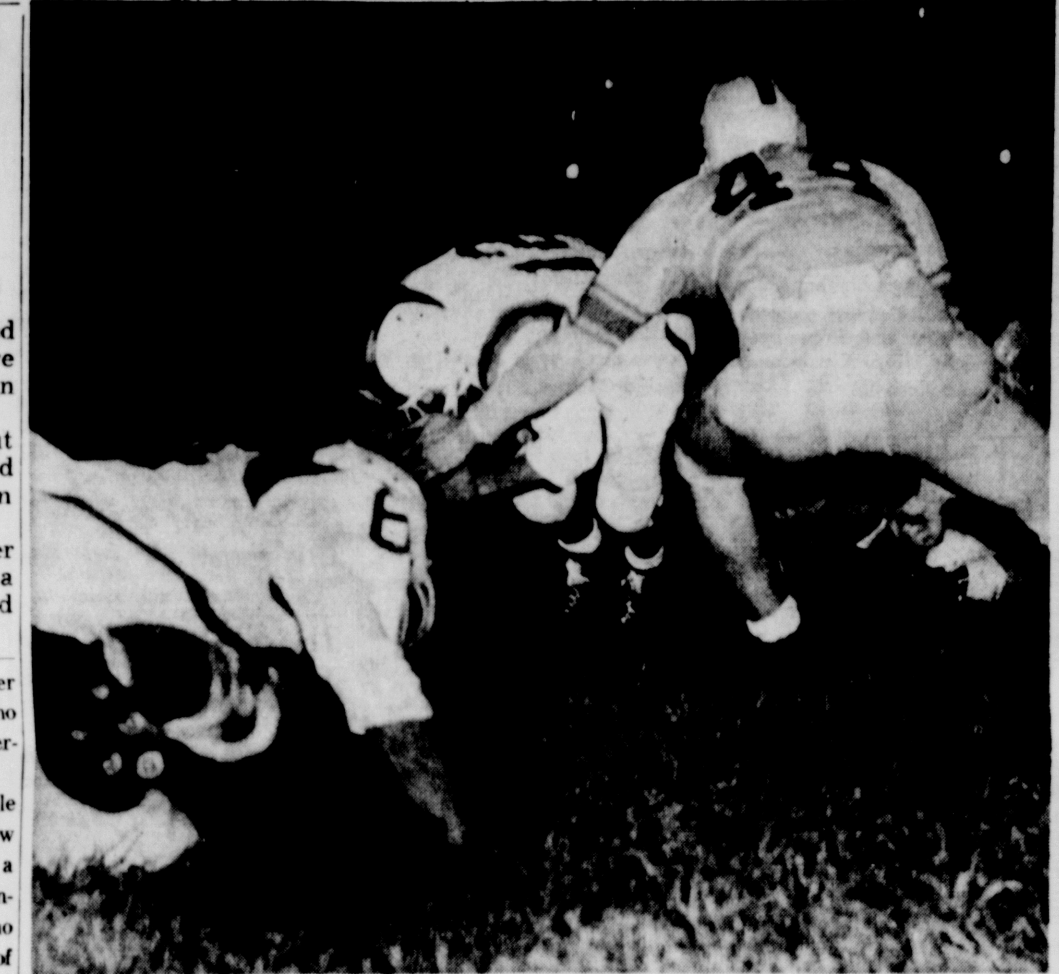

It was a nice boot to the Lisbon 22. Two plays carried to the Lisbon 33, from where Bucher swept to his right on a keeper play, was almost caught on cue, but broke loose for the touchdown run.

WELLSVILLE was knocking on the door when the game ended, having moved to the Lisbon 14 in a drive from the Lisbon 36. Pint-sized halfback Miller intercepted a Lisbon pass to give Wellsville possession. But the game ended with Lisbon intercepting one of Thornton's passes to abolish the threat.

Two Battles Launch NFL Card Tonight

By The Associated Press

The Dallas Cowboys, with the town to themselves and talking title, open the National Football League's 44th season tonight against St. Louis' crippled Cardinals.

An hour or so later the Detroit Lions rumble onto the field against the Rams in Los Angeles. The rest of the league swings into action in five games Sunday afternoon.

Dallas and Detroit are favored in the openers, the improving Cowboys by a touchdown and the tough Lions by two.

The Cowboys, the only pro team in town since the Texans moved their American Football League franchise to Kansas City, are rated one of the most likely contenders for the New York Giants' Eastern Division crown.

The Cardinals never have lost to the Cowboys, but they will be without the services of their top runner, John David Crow, out with a knee injury, and cornerback Bill Stacey, out with a fractured cheekbone.

The Rams, who did a lot of experimenting with their offense, managed only two victories in the exhibitions, and could have trouble with Detroit's rock-hard defense, led by linebacker Joe Schmidt.

Los Angeles finally has settled on Jon Arnett and Dick Bass as their running backs, but the quarterback situation is still a toss-up between rookie Terry Baker, Roman Gabriel and Zeke Bratkowski.

Sunday, Chicago faces the defending champions at Green Bay. New York is at Baltimore. Pittsburgh is at Philadelphia. Washington is at Cleveland and Minnesota is at San Francisco.

Ward's 46-Yard TD Jaunt Gives Clippers 14-14 Tie

COLUMBIANA — Halfback Jim Ward, county sprint champion, tallied on a 46-yard run in the third quarter and Eric Keck accounted for the conversion to provide Columbiana High with a 14-14 tie in a battle with Youngstown North Friday night at Firestone Park stadium.

North had drawn first blood, moving 91 yards in 14 plays in the second quarter to tally on Robinson's 14-yard dash off tackle. He also ran over the conversion.

Columbiana, in its season opener, got rolling after a scoreless first half to tally in the third on a 45-yard pass from quarterback Ed Miller to halfback Jack Hawkins. Ward's attempted run of the conversion failed.

North struck back with a 70-

Harper, Istnick Pace East Palestine Victory

After a scoreless first half, the Bulldogs solved the West Branch defense for two third period scores.

Ray Harper scored from six yards out following a sustained drive which started when East Palestine took the second half kickoff. Harper added the conversion on a run.

Later in the quarter, Bill Istnick plunged two yards for a touchdown after he had made an exciting 59-yard run.

East Palestine's defensive forces didn't allow West Branch closer than the 15-yard line.

Beman, Sikes To Clash For Amateur Golf Title

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—The smart people in the gallery for the 36-hole title match of the U.S. Amateur golf championship will park themselves at the green today and wait for Deane Beman and Dick Sikes.

That's where the 63rd national championship will be decided between the two young fellows who make a putter their greatest weapon. From tee to green, they are little more than average.

"There isn't a tournament really that isn't decided on the greens," Beman, of Bethesda, Md., said after his 5 and 4 victory in the semifinals over the California cowpoke, George Archer. "But it's especially true here where the greens are good but very difficult to read. I'd have been nowhere here if I hadn't been putting."

"I don't know how I'll play but I know this," said Sikes, who disposed of former champion Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, 2 and 1. "If I don't putt better than I did in the afternoon against Charlie, this match won't last long. I was horrible."

Beman, 25, who won this championship in 1960, had 11 one-putts lie Coe of Oklahoma City, 2 and 1. "If I don't putt better than I did in the afternoon against Charlie, this match won't last long. I was horrible."

Oak Glen Suffers Second Grid Loss To Wellsburg, 12-0

Fumbles Play Key Part In 2nd Shutout

WELLSBURG—Fumbles, with a few penalties tossed in, came at the wrong time and Oak Glen's football forces dropped a 12-0 decision to Wellsburg here Friday night before some 1,400 fans.

The contest marked the second time in two games that Oak Glen was shut out by its opponent.

Coach Bob Starkey's team couldn't seem to get started here last night. Each drive was usually halted by a fumble or a penalty.

Oak Glen fumbled in the second quarter with Wellsburg recovering on its own 44. The home team opened a drive that carried to the four-yard line where half-back Leslie Mills plunged over to break the scoring ice with 4:24 remaining in the first half. A run for the extra point failed.

Another fumble by the Hancock County eleven on its own 14 resulted in another Wellsburg touchdown. This time Mills passed 13 yards to Ted Williams for the TD. Another plunge for the conversion failed.

Oak Glen's deepest drive of the evening carried to the Wellsburg 20. Wellsburg only had seven first downs all evening with four coming in one touchdown drive and three more coming in succession in the second half.

The Hancock eleven came up with eight first downs but couldn't put more than two together at any one time.

Carl Gillespie and Bill Manley, Oak Glen's two big tackles, turned in outstanding performances on the line.

WELLSBURG 0 6 0 6-12

Scoring:

Salem Loses 14-12 Battle

SALEM — Ravenna High's Big Blue gained a 14-12 victory over Salem here Friday night when the Quakers failed to add a conversion after a fourth quarter touchdown.

Ravenna opened the scoring in the second quarter when Byron Allen ran five yards. A pass failed for the conversion. Salem tied it at 6-6 on Joe Begalla's 21 yard run.

Ravenna moved ahead on Bill Fullum's two - yard touchdown run, and a pass from Blaine Baldasare to Bob Clark for the conversion in the final quarter.

The Quakers came back to score on Spack's 10-yard pass from Earley, but missed the conversion run that would have tied the score.

Salem moved to the Ravenna 10-yard line late in the game but was held in check.

Tech, Florida Clash In TV Football Game

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech, which hasn't lost an opening football game at home since 1926, faces a stiff test today as the Yellow Jackets take on the Florida Gators in the first major college game of the season.

The game is the last in the current series between Tech and Florida. Coaches Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech and Ray Graves of Florida have been unable to reach an agreement on future dates.

Tech is rated a six-point favorite in the game which will be nationally televised (CBS). But the Gators, rated in many quarters as the darkhorse of the Southeastern Conference, will be fighting to even up the series between Dodd and Graves. Game time is 2 p.m. EDT.

Wheeling Down May Ask Tax Concessions

CHARLESTON — The Wheeling Downs Racing Association has indicated it may ask the courts to grant it tax concessions. Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson says are not legal.

The problem arose when the association proposed to transfer tax relief granted by the 1963 Legislature to aid in recovering from two fires to the Waterford Park in Hancock County. The two tracks wanted to run a joint race program with the tax advantage being enjoyed by Waterford Park.

The 20 major league baseball teams paid more than $4 million in federal, state and city taxes in 1962.

Los Angeles Has 14 Left, St. Louis 13

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
"They've got to be concerned now. A week ago they were sure they were in and weren't concerned. It's different now. They know it and we know it."

"They" are the Dodgers.

Speaking is St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane following the second-place Cardinals' 16th victory in 17 games, a 7-0 triumph over Milwaukee Friday night built on Curt Siomms' third straight shutout and key hitting by Stan Musial and Ken Boyer.

"Sure we're closing in on them but we all realize we're still behind," Keane acknowledged. "We can't afford to lose any more. We're just hoping that somebody hangs a couple of defeats on them."

The Cardinals, who have sliced Los Angeles' National League lead from seven games two weeks ago to 2 1/2, got some help as the Philadelphia Phillies took the opener of a two-night doubleheader 3-2 before the Dodgers won the nightcap 2-1.

The Dodgers have 14 games remaining, the Cardinals 13. The pennant winner tackles the New York Yankees, who clinched the American League flag with a 2-0 decision at Minnesota.

In other NL action, Willie Stargell figured in all the scoring as Pittsburgh edged San Francisco 5-4 in 13 innings. Houston's Don Notbart threw a two-hitter at the New York Mets and won 1-0 and Chicago's Cubs defeated Cincinnati 3-2.

Simmons brought his record to 15-7 by posting the Cardinals' fourth shutout in five games with a five-hitter. His mates got to Warren Spahn, 20-6, in the first inning on a single by Grandpa Star Musial and a homer by Boyer. Musial went 2-for-3 on the night, extending his hitting streak to six games.

The Dodgers tossed away the opener in the bottom of the ninth when shortstop Maury Wills threw wild on a double play attempt with the bases loaded and one out. Two runs scored on the play, enabling Chris Short, 7-11, to get the victory with a four-hitter. The Dodgers moved ahead in the top of the ninth on Frank Howard's two-run homer.

In the nightcap, the Dodgers got the winning run in the eighth on a single by Tommy Davis, a double by Howard and a grounder by Ken McMullen. Ron Perranoski kept the Phillies scoreless in the final three innings in his 62nd appearance and brought his record to 15-3. Dennis Bennett, 8-4, took the loss.

'Big O' Signs With Royals, All Regulars Are In CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals have all their regulars under contract and are ready to start the 1963-64 grind.

The Big O—Oscar Robertson to people who don't follow National Basketball Association games—signed his contract Friday. Terms were not disclosed.

Robertson was the NBA's third leading scorer last season with 2,264 points for a 28.3 average.

While signing Robertson the Royals released six rookies. Four other rookies—including Jerry Lucas—were retained at the club's training camp at Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus. The others kept are Joe Roberts, another former Ohio State star; Mack Herndon from Bradley and Jay Arnette from Texas.

Paint Or Varnish Decision

By JOHN BOHANNAN
Sooner or later, anyone who owns a boat will discover that varnished surfaces call for an endless amount of work. Sun is the enemy of varnish. The actinic rays cause a gradual breakdown, dulling the gloss and eventually reducing the coating to a brittle layer that begins to crack and peel.

Once the surface breaks, the wood underneath turns black. Then, the only answer is to use varnish remover to take the entire area down to the wood, give it several bleaching treatments to remove the discoloring, neutralize, sand and apply at least three coats, sanding between each coat. This requires a lot of time. You can either do it yourself, or hire it done—and that's expensive.

IF YOU CAN keep the boat out of the sun, of course, a lot of this trouble can be avoided. We once saw a bright-finished runabout seven years old. The mahogany appeared as beautiful and shiny as the day it was delivered.

Junior Editors Quiz on SUBMARINES

QUESTION: How does a submarine dive and come up?

ANSWER: Objects heavier than their same size in water tend to sink, like pieces of metal or stone. But objects lighter than their size in water will float, or if they have been submerged and then released, will bob up. Air is one of these lighter substances. By varying the amount of air it contains, a submarine can either remain on the surface, sink down, or rise up.

A submarine has two hulls (see cross sections) between which are empty spaces used as tanks. Liquid fuel is carried in the upper tanks, but the main "ballast" tanks are either filled with air, water or some of both. When filled with air (A) the sub floats on the surface. In (B) the ballast tanks are half filled with water; now the sub is beginning to sink. With tanks full of water (C) the sub can travel far down. Notice three more tanks (shaded areas) in top drawing. By letting water into these, a sub can adjust its angle or "trim". When the captain decides to rise, he has some water blown out of the tanks by compressed air. The angle at which the diving planes are set also helps the ship go up or down.

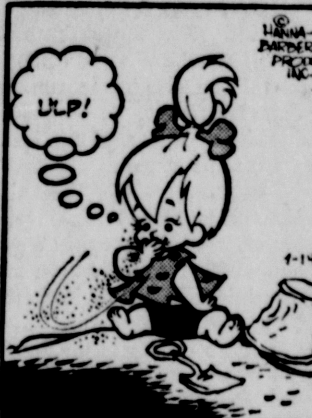

FOR YOU TO DO: Fill a basin with water and float an empty cup on the surface to imitate a submarine filled with air. Now gradually pour water into your cup submarine and you will see it dive below the surface.

Richard Bittner of LeRoy, Ohio, wins the daily prize of a 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

Problems In Auto Insurance Discussed By Lions Speaker

A general discussion on problems facing auto insurance companies, including use of a weighted "loss potential index," was presented to the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel by James Steiner, an agent for the Nationwide Insurance Co. Casualty insurance concerns everyone since most drive autos, Steiner pointed out. Fifteen per cent of those carrying auto insurance are in the 16-25 age group but they have 32 per cent of the accidents, he said. Because many older people are prejudiced against youthful drivers, insurance firms find it difficult to secure witnesses for the younger driver's application, he said. How to select which drivers to insure is a common problem facing all auto insurance companies. Through information and statistics, insurance firms now try to predict the loss potential before issuing insurance, Steiner pointed out. The weighted index used by Nationwide covers such items as age, sex and marital status of the applicant, type and condition of the car, how far the car is driven to work, physical impairments of the driver, job stability, number of accidents and traffic violations, whether car is kept in a garage or not, home environment and driving habits, Steiner said. The agent pointed out inattention probably is the cause of the most accidents along with tailgating and overdriving. Emotionally upset drivers also frequently are involved in accidents, he added. Steiner was introduced by Donald Duke, program chairman. Mrs. Mary McCullough spoke briefly on the dinner scheduled Sept. 24 at 6:30 p.m. at St. Aloysius Parochial School for the Cerebral Palsy Center. Dr. Robert Mercer of the Cleveland Clinic will be speaker. The dinner is more to call attention to the center's work than as a fund-raising affair, she said. John T. Smith, president, presided.

Hamilton Airport Due Small Jets' Runway

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Hamilton Airport is going to get a runway capable of handling small jet planes and executive-type aircraft used by industries. William Beckett, president of the Hamilton Association of Trade and Industry, says local industries are providing money for a 4,500-foot runway, a radio homing beacon and various other equipment at the family-owned airfield.

Sen. Young Will Be Honored At Cleveland Dinner Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Stephen M. Young, a first-term U. S. senator who has not said whether he will seek re-election in 1964, will be guest of honor at a dinner attended by about 1,200 persons here tonight.

Principal speaker will be former President Harry S. Truman, one of the few top Democratic party leaders who predicted Young's upset victory over John W. Bricker in 1958.

Sponsors say the $100-plate dinner will raise $100,000 which Young can have as a campaign fund if he decides to run next year. But Young, 73, has said he doesn't intend to announce his decision at the dinner.

Toastmaster will be Howard M. Metzbaum, former state legislator and Young's campaign manager in 1958. Truman will be introduced by U. S. Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Youngstown.

Young's colleagues in the Senate who promised to be on hand are Warren G. Magnuson, Washington; Howard W. Cannon and Alan Bible, both of Nevada; Edward L. Bartlett, Alaska; Frank E. Moss, Utah; George McGovern of South Dakota; and Daniel K. Inouye, Hawaii.

Word from Washington is that Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Young's Ohio colleague, does not plan to be here. Lausche was not available for comment Friday, but an aide said the senator was told some time ago by his physicians to ease up on his activities and Lausche is doing this.

Also on the speaker's platform will be Anthony J. Celebrezze, former Cleveland mayor now U.S.

secretary of health, education and welfare, and John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman.

Stephen Smith, President Kennedy's brother-in-law and troubleshooter, also will attend.

Bailey and Smith arrived Friday and talked over strategy for next year's campaign with Ohio Democratic county chairmen.

Bailey later told party colleagues at Democratic headquarters that "no matter whom the Republicans put up, we can win if we register the voters and put on a campaign on our record."

He said President Kennedy could win Ohio in 1964.

Truman Says Young Will Run Again In '64

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman predicted Friday night that Ohio Sen. Stephen M. Young will run for re-election in 1964. Young has been noncommittal.

Truman flew here from Kansas City. He'll be one of the top attractions tonight at an "appreciation dinner" for Young.

Greeting Truman at Cleveland Hopkins Airport were Young; Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio and industrialist Cyrus Eaton.

Asked by newsmen if he thought Young would run again, Truman replied:

"Why, I wouldn't have come all this way if I didn't think so."

Truman said President Kennedy has "done a good job, but you can't judge a president until he's been in office six years. I don't think his civil rights program will hurt him."

Beaver Fund Solicitation Set In Plants

The employees solicitation of the United Funds of Beaver County will be launched Monday among 40,000 workers in the county's major corporations for the in-company phase of the annual campaign for $803,902.

A. C. Keller, Aliquippa Works manager of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., and Kay Kluz, District 20 Director of the United Steelworkers, are co-chairmen of the 1963 Chapter-Fair Share Program. They said "the annual united fund campaign has the irrevocable support of both labor and management. A fair share pledge of half to one hour's pay per month for 12 months will go a long way in helping more than 50,000 people served annually by the 43 agencies deriving support from the United Funds of Beaver County."

Under the 1963 chapter plan more than 300 companies have indicated their willingness to be United Fund Chapters, providing one corporate pledge for all services eligible for United Fund support, one employee annual solicitation and that for the United Fund and a year around payroll deduction plan related to the United Fund Fair Share scale.

Family Weekly Is

Ten Years Old!

By LEONARD S. DAVIDOW
Publisher of FAMILY WEEKLY

ON SEPT. 13, 1953—just ten years ago—the readers of 33 fine newspapers across the country received the first issue of FAMILY WEEKLY, a new colorgravure magazine designed exclusively for the growing middle-sized cities of America.

Ten years are not many as history is recorded, but in the highly competitive magazine business, it can be a lifetime. During this decade, FAMILY WEEKLY has earned its place in the publishing world. From these original 33 distributing newspapers with a total circulation of 600,000, the magazine has steadily gained wider acceptance until today it is distributed by 159 leading newspapers with a combined circulation of more than 4,600,000!

So we hope you will pardon our immodesty when we say: congratulations to a healthy 10-year-old. Actually it would be more fitting for us to congratulate the wonderful readers of FAMILY WEEKLY who, in ever-increasing numbers, have written us enthusiastic and approving letters (as well as occasional squawks, of course) and the many fine writers, photographers, and artists who have contributed to our 500-some issues.

What have been some of FAMILY WEEKLY's outstanding features during these 10 years? There have been many—some informative, others inspirational, prophetic, exciting, thought-provoking, or simply entertaining. To list a few: "We're Working Our Presidents Too Hard," 1956; "The Shame of Our Mental Hospitals," 1958; "Eight Against Death in the Desert," 1959; "How We Hunted Down the No. 1 Nazi Butcher," a great story by Eichmann's captor, 1960; "Are We Endangering Our Children's Children?" a two-part series on the perils of radiation by Dr. Milton Senn, 1961; "The Case of the Bluebell's Last Voyage," an Erle Stanley Gardner true mystery, 1962; "The Lockout of God in Our Public Schools" by Bishop James A. Pike, 1962; and during 1963, "I Found the Girl Lost in the Yukon" by the rescue pilot, and J. Edgar Hoover's credo for parents, "What I Would Tell a Son."

JUST RECENTLY, FAMILY WEEKLY has merited editorial recognition from two different sources. First, Doubleday & Company has contracted to publish an anthology of our wonderful series, "My Most Inspiring Moment," by such distinguished authors as Pearl Buck, Irving Stone, Taylor Caldwell, and A. J. Cronin. The anthology will be published in 1965 and will be made available at a special price to FAMILY WEEKLY readers who would like to have this outstanding collection of stories in book form.

The second recognition has just been announced this month: FAMILY WEEKLY won the $1,000 first prize for the best magazine article during 1962 on the subject of physical recreation. This award, sponsored by the American Machine & Foundry Company in cooperation with the National Recreation Association, was for the article, "The Soft Life Is Bad Medicine," by the noted heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, as told to Curtis Mitchell. It appeared in the May 20, 1962, issue of FAMILY WEEKLY.

What do you, our readers, think of FAMILY WEEKLY? We found out several years ago when the Bolger Company, an independent research organization, conducted a survey of magazine readers. In comparison with such leading magazines as Time, Life, Better Homes and Gardens, and the National Geographic, FAMILY WEEKLY scored the highest ratings of all in three significant categories: "warmhearted" (displays a deep interest in the welfare of others); "public-spirited" (encourages and aids activities that are in the public interest); and "ethical" (shows strict regard for what is morally right). This survey also gave us high scores for being friendly, unbiased, clear, and imaginative, but it is a source of pride to us that we were rated superior in the areas of morality and good will.

As we blow out the candles on our birthday cake, our wish is that FAMILY WEEKLY will continue to merit the approval of its distributing newspapers and their millions of readers. Our pledge is that we shall do our utmost to make every future issue the best possible.

GUY IN HOLLYWOOD

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

The pace eased when he switched to movies. More important, he learned a new method of memorizing a script. "Today, I read a script two or three times while keeping the whole plot in mind so that, when I go into each scene, I know what has happened before. When we start to stage scenes, I learn thoughts and moves rather than specific lines. Then, after we do it a couple of times, I know my lines automatically. This way it's fun."

Jim readily admits being lazy in every other respect, however, and that includes reading the many scripts that are sent to him for perusal. That chore he leaves to his wife Lois, whom he married seven years ago after a two-week courtship and a two-day engagement.

But Jim refuses to take any other part of his career home with him. "I can't concentrate on a scene when my daughter wants to play or my wife wants to talk about something. And that's more important to me."

Because Jim disliked working as a boy, he refuses to subject his children to any money-making schemes. The Garners have two daughters: Kimberly, Lois's daughter by a previous marriage, is 15, and Greta Scott is 5. "Both girls have to keep their rooms tidy, but that is only a matter of good manners," Jim pointed out. "They don't get paid for it. Their allowance is entirely separate."

A GOOD PART of an actor's life consists of attending premieres and taking care of personal publicity. Jim avoids such activity with a vengeance. Contrary to what has been said, however, he doesn't mind giving up his lunch time for interviews because, as he puts it, "it has been good therapy for me. I found out an awful lot about myself I didn't know."

The only exception is fan-magazine interviews, which he refuses to give. "When I was a kid, I picked up fan magazines like anybody else and read all those things that I thought were in such bad taste—phony shots of Joe Schmoe and his girl out on a shopping spree at Olvera Street. I developed a dislike for that kind of publicity, yet when I got into the business I found myself slipping into it automatically—an interview here, an interview there—trying to be nice. But when a few fan-magazine stories came out, I literally got sick at the things written about me. I was embarrassed by the thought of people I knew reading those things and thinking that I had said or done them. I value their respect more than the publicity."

DURING THE past year Jim attended one premiere. He doesn't even like to go out at night. "We go out twice a month at the most," he says. "Having to dress up is like punching a time clock for me. I enjoy being with people, just like I enjoy working with people, as long as it doesn't require a great effort on my part." Fortunately, Lois shares his sentiments.

Jim's philosophy is evident in his work. Just as Gary Cooper, Jimmy Stewart, John Wayne, and other movie greats are known for certain trademarks, Jim has won his audience by an easygoing attitude that comes across on the screen. And when I accompanied him back to the set after lunch and watched him splash around in a heated pool for a scene with Doris Day in "The Thrill of It All," I couldn't help wondering if he wasn't right and all the other actors wrong who constantly complain about the hard work and sacrifices they make for their profession.

Does he have any problems at all?

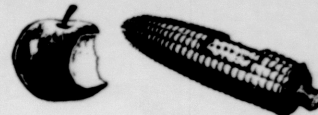

"Sure," says Jim. "My dratted golf game. Come to think of it, that's not too much to be upset about, is it?"

labor except acting—and that isn't really work, he says

Lee Remick costars in "The Wheeler Dealers"; John Sturges directs "The Great Escape."

PARENTS, TEACHERS, AND TOTS ACROSS THE LAND ARE SAYING:

Thank You, Dr. Seuss!

For Giving Us Books That Even Beginners
Can Read All By Themselves

Must books written simply enough for first, second and third graders necessarily be dull? It was always assumed so... until the beloved DR. SEUSS created "The Cat in the Hat." The kids loved it, and parents and teachers were thrilled to see their children reading joyously and unaided. Now the idea has been expanded by Dr. Seuss and other gifted writers and artists into a whole program of irresistible BEGINNER BOOKS.

To introduce you and your child to the new

Beginning Readers' Program

WE INVITE YOU TO ACCEPT

These 3 Beginner Books including the delightful new

DR. SEUSS story, "HOP ON POP"

the "simplest Seuss for youngest use"

for $1.49

WITH TRIAL
ENROLLMENT

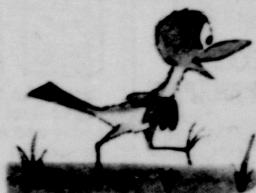

You'll know something special is happening the first time your youngster turns, wide-eyed, from the wonderful cartoon creatures and their hilarious antics to the words that tell the story. Word by word, phrase by phrase, he will follow the print. Excitement grows and grows until the secret can be kept no longer. "Mommy! Daddy! Come and listen. I can read it myself." And so the great adventure begins, moving from page to page, book to book — until the words that were once hard to read become easy — understanding comes more quickly — and vocabulary grows by leaps and bounds. All because he has discovered reading is fun, when he can do it himself.

BOOKS OF ADVENTURE, HUMOR, KNOWLEDGE —

WRITTEN IN WORDS HE ALREADY KNOWS OR CAN QUICKLY LEARN

The importance of the BEGINNING READERS' PROGRAM goes far beyond the glorious illustrations and fascinating stories. Each book makes reading more fun, and easier than ever, because it is written in 50 to 275 basic words your child has already learned, or can quickly pick up. All are written and illustrated by gifted writers and artists who know where a child's heart is. There's a story on whales, the tale of a city boy who becomes a cowboy, a little girl who flew an airplane... even a trip to the moon. No wonder TV and comic books soon step aside!

BEGINNER BOOKS are durably designed to live with a small child. Printed in at least three bright colors and in large readable type, they're just long enough for a child's attention span. As a member, your child will receive a BEGINNER BOOK every month and you will be billed only $1.49 plus a small mailing charge, instead of the publisher's retail price of $1.95. After four selections, you may cancel any time.

Our Introductory Trial Offer

We invite you to prove the benefits of the BEGINNING READERS' PROGRAM by accepting the three books shown here — a $5.85 value at the publisher's retail price — for $1.49. Even this small investment in your child's reading and school progress carries no risk.

Ten days' trial must convince you that the program will stimulate his appetite for reading, or you may return the three introductory books and owe nothing. If we prove our point, have you ever seen a greater bargain? Fill out and return the coupon now, to

HOP ON POP

Wonderful nonsense for the youngest readers of all. As The New York Times Book Review says, "Dr. Seuss is bent on removing reading frustrations before they start and he deserves a special fanfare for 'HOP ON POP'... Should turn any reading lesson into a ball, especially when the children see the illustrations."

TEN APPLES UP ON TOP!
by Theo. LeSieg
Illustrated by Roy McKie

Take ten apples, some extraordinarily dexterous animals, and an author who can toss words around as deftly as a juggler tosses his clubs. The result: a delightful tale told in rhyme — and a vocabulary of just 75 simple words. Wild and wonderful pictures add to the fun.

ARE YOU MY MOTHER?
by P. D. Eastman

An odd young bird hatches out of his egg and into a series of feather-raising adventures. At the brink of disaster, fate smiles (and your tot will laugh with pleasure and relief) as our hero is rescued by a snorting steam shovel. All this in funny pictures and a vocabulary of 100 simple words!

Jim Garner:

LAZIEST

"HE DOESN'T really want to be interviewed," a 20th Century-Fox publicist told me when I asked for an appointment with Jim Garner.

"Why? We always got along well."

"Nothing personal," he explained. "He's just too lazy to take the time! If you ask me, he's the laziest guy in town."

"Agreed," said Jim Garner when we met for lunch a few days later. "I don't like to work. I've even kicked the gardening habit—I won't so much as pick up a leaf any more. And if anything in the house breaks, I call someone in to fix it. My do-it-yourself days are over."

"So how come you are now making your fourth film within 12 months?" I was referring to "The Great Escape," "The Thrill of It All," "The Wheeler Dealers," and now "Move Over, Darling."

"I said I didn't like to work," Jim replied. "Acting isn't work, at least not any more. When it was, I didn't like it."

He was commenting on his last year as television's Bret Maverick when he got an ulcer, a suspension from Warner Bros., and a $100,000 loss in earnings. He ended up just plain fed up with tv.

Jim's dislike for work has colored his outlook on life since the Depression. He was born in Norman, Okla., on April 7, 1928. His father, who did carpentry and other manual jobs, was not poverty-stricken, but the Bumgarner (Jim's real name is James Bumgarner) went through the same hard times faced by so many American families during that period.

"I started to make money at eight, mowing lawns," he remembered. "I can't recall a day of my childhood after that when I wasn't clipping hedges, carting away clutter, cleaning garages and wood-sheds—and hating every minute of it. Someday, I told myself, I'll make enough money to have those things done for me. Now that I've arrived, I prefer to play golf and devote more time to my family."

Jim has been on his own since he was 16, when he enlisted in the merchant marine. A year later he joined his father, who had gone to Los Angeles when Jim was 13, in a carpet-laying business. Until he became an actor, his 50-some jobs included truck driving, carpentry, tree cutting, chicken cleaning, painting, and modeling bathing suits.

He never liked any of these activities and tried to get out of them whenever possible. Jim even became an actor with practically no effort. Before he was drafted into the Army during the Korean War, he had worked nights at a gas station in Hollywood. At a nearby drugstore, where Jim usually ate, a friend, Paul Gregory, tried to earn a living as a soda jerk. Someday, Paul kept assuring Jim, he'd be a theatrical producer.

YEARs LATER, Jim happened to see a sign on Hollywood Blvd. reading, "Paul Gregory, Producer." He went in, reminded his old buddy of his promise, and landed a nonspeaking part in "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," which was headed for Broadway. That led to small supporting roles in tv dramas, a screen test, and a Warner Bros. contract.

Acting was more fun than what he had done before. But to Jim it was still a chore because he hated memorizing lines.

As Maverick, he was forever studying his lines—between takes, evenings, weekends, on his days off. "I was cramming just as I did in school, and I disliked it just as much. It's hard to learn 12-15 pages of dialogue a day and still be pleasant to your wife!"

Childhood drudgery made him "allergic" to all kinds of

Garner with Doris Day in "The Thrill of It All" and Polly Bergen in "Move Over, Darling."

THOSE FOOTBALL UPSETS?

NU relies heavily this year on star Tommy Myers (18).

Emotions are powerful. Yet while they build a drive which temporarily equalizes otherwise unequal individuals or teams, they also lead to letdowns after a major game. The successful coach is the one who best controls this letdown factor.

Tennessee felt the power of this letdown a few seasons ago after it rose to end a long Louisiana State winning streak, then went downhill the rest of the year. About then, Northwestern was winning six straight, leading the Big Ten, and was ranked No. 2 nationally. We had been "high" and tried to get "high" again for Wisconsin. We lost due to fumbles.

The next week, still not out of the Big Ten race, we went all out against Michigan State but lost another tough one, by five points. Even then, the following Saturday we could have qualified for a Rose Bowl bid, but it was Illinois' last game under Coach Ray Eliot. This time the Illini were "high," and we were physically and psychologically run down. We just couldn't help ourselves and Illinois won, 28-0.

Can you detect in advance when these factors, over which no player or coach has complete control, will combine to make an upset? Never for certain, no matter how sharp, single-minded, or dedicated your own team may appear. That's what makes football fascinating.

YOU CAN, HOWEVER, keep from being caught completely off guard by knowing when upsets are most likely. In general, this is:

—When the underdog is "hungry" from not having won for a while, yet has sound players and coaching.

—When there's a traditional rivalry, such as Army-Navy, Michigan-Michigan State, Texas-Oklahoma, Harvard-Princeton, etc.

—When something special rides on the game, such as a championship, or perhaps a Homecoming win (you fight harder when friends are watching).

—When one team has been beaten by an extremely large or frustratingly close score the year before.

—When one team is a champion with no compelling reason to be really "high," while the underdog has much to gain in prestige or satisfaction.

—When key injuries, graduation losses, or a possible emotional letdown may leave a favored team vulnerable.

Some upsets are "paper" or false ones, purely a result of misreading the press clippings. Observers may forget, for example, that last year's team isn't this year's; that injuries have genuinely hurt one side; that differences in caliber of opposition make won-lost records relative; or that what seems to be a poor season actually has been caused by a few correctable individual mistakes, the inevitable "human element."

Real upsets, in which a weaker team does defeat a stronger one, are fewer. And they're harder to forecast. But they're the most unforgettable. So be on the lookout—because they're bound to keep happening.

WHAT MAKES

SPORTS

By ARA PARSEGHIAN

Head Coach, Northwestern University

as told to Alfred Balk

Ara Parseghian and key back plot tactics.

Ara Parseghian, 37, whose Northwestern Wildcats came within a football's bounce of the Rose Bowl the last two seasons, is one of the nation's top young coaches. Dynamic and intense, he formerly was a Cleveland Browns halfback and later coached at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

FOOTBALL has many thrills, but probably none more memorable—for players or spectators—than an upset.

Last season some great ones went into the books: UCLA's knocking Ohio State from top national ranking, 9-7, for example; or four-touchdown-underdog Illinois beating Purdue, 14-10, to end a 15-game losing streak that dated back two seasons; or—and I hate to mention this one—Wisconsin's 37-10 win over Northwestern when we were rated No. 1 in the country and a Rose Bowl contender.

The 1963 season will bring upsets, too—starting this weekend probably.

What causes these upsets? Why does a supposedly stronger team, with every reason to win, go crashing to defeat?

As coach of a team which has been fortunate enough to have sprung many noted upsets in the past, I've often been asked these questions. What, for instance, was behind Northwestern's key 18-14 victory over defending Big Ten champion Ohio State last season and others in recent years over such strong clubs as Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Notre Dame?

Look at any famous upset in college football, and you'll find one constant factor—the overwhelming desire to win.

Scouting, surprise plays, "breaks," fumbles, penalties, bad weather all enter into the upset picture, of course, but most coaches agree that wanting to win is the real key.

Also, since football is a team game, everyone involved must be pulling together. Any high-school, college, or professional-league coach always works to get his team to pull together and hunger for a victory.

Emotional "hunger" means just that—for some reason, you're hungry to attain a certain goal. What does this game mean to the team? Why is it anything special?

Why is it a "big one"? Because a coach has put meaning into the game, made it something special.

Do college coaches actually pin up newspaper headlines and clippings to make games seem meaningful? Certainly we do. It's to everyone's benefit to know why and how a test counts.

Before Southern California played Ohio State in 1959, for instance, USC coach Don Clark hung up a sign with Woody Hayes' comments about the 1955 Rose Bowl: "The Trojans were pretty good for a West Coast team," said the Ohio State coach, "but they wouldn't finish higher than fifth in the Big Ten." USC became determined to make Hayes eat those words and went all-out for an upset, 17-0.

Then there were the circumstances of Northwestern's game with Oklahoma in 1959. Just two seasons earlier we had gone winless for nine games. A victory over three-time national champ Oklahoma would give our name some needed luster.

Oklahoma, meanwhile, was concentrating on using a win over a Big Ten team to silence criticism from some quarters that it played easy schedules and was a "cheese champion."

That Saturday we were prepared. Our desire was greater, and we got the breaks, too, capitalizing on every Oklahoma mistake for touchdowns. The score mounted to 45-13, a genuine upset.

UPSETS also result from giving more than "just enough." One try for a tackle, one lunge at the line—no such ordinary exertions are enough. You make a second effort, even a third and fourth, throughout daily practice and finally in the game.

"The difference between mediocrity and greatness," a sign in our locker room says, "is a little extra effort." Never is this clearer than in an upset.

The year after our winless season, when we played Michigan we had every loss in mind, especially one inflicted by the Wolverines. Now we had close wins in three games, and we not only could repay a debt but really show whether we "had it" in the new season. On the first three plays, thanks to second-effort pursuit and tackling, Michigan lost 17 yards. In one seven-minute stretch, we scored four touchdowns. We won, 55-24!

The New Pope's

WHEN PRESIDENT KENNEDY called on Pope Paul VI shortly after the new Pope's coronation in June, the two chatted privately for a quarter of an hour and then for another 15 minutes with a third man present.

The third man was not Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The latter was on hand, but he had to wait another quarter of an hour before he was ushered in.

Nor was the third man the Vatican's Secretary of State, Amleto Cardinal Cicognani. The Cardinal, No. 2 man in the Roman Catholic hierarchy, was also waiting outside with Dean Rusk.

The other man in the Papal-Presidential colloquy was an all-but-unknown yet significant figure—the most Americanized prelate ever to reach the highest levels of the Catholic Curia.

You probably never heard of him, but from now on you will. Read the captions under pictures of the activities of Pope Paul, and more and more you will see the name of the Right Rev. Monsignor Igino Cardinale, a former schoolboy in New York City and now, at the very least, the No. 5 man in the Vatican's all-powerful Secretariat of State.

Monsignor Cardinale was born in Italy, but his first language was "American." His sister Gilda, who lives in the same Roman apartment house as he does, still carries on conversations with him only in English.

The future Monsignor was just two when his family immigrated to Boston in 1920. Later his father, who was a maker of fine shoes, took his family to the College Point section of New York City, a humble but self-respecting area of frame houses next to Flushing Meadow, site of the 1964 World's Fair.

It was in College Point's large, baroque St. Fidelis Church that 12-year-old Igino decided that he wanted to be a priest. What kind of a priest? Certainly a hearty, outgoing American one, the only kind the boy knew in the land of Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey.

But in 1930 Igino's ailing and homesick father felt the lure of sunny, gentle Italy. The boy's mother, who now lives with him in Rome, did not share her husband's desire to return to Italy; but in an Italian family, the father is the boss. So, at 13, Igino went back to the homeland he did not even remember.

After World War II, he was able to write to priest friends in the States: "You did not hear from me during the war because I could not correspond. But I have big news for you. I have realized my ambition; I am now a priest. But something new has come up. I received my doctorate and then won a medal given by the Pope.

Here is the little-known story of the New York schoolboy who has reached the inner circle of the Vatican hierarchy

Aide—

New York-reared Msgr. Cardinale, the Pope's chief of protocol.

WHO GREW UP IN AMERICA!

As a result, it seems that I am not to be a parish priest as I had wished. They have called me to the Papal Secretariat of State."

The College Point boy whose only desire had been to be a parish priest had been recognized for what he was, one of his Church's most promising young leaders.

Soon after those first postwar letters, the American friends of the young priest-diplomat began getting correspondence from Cairo. Igino had been sent there as a Vatican attaché. Not long afterward, the postmark on the mail was Rome again. The young clergyman was secretary to the secretary of Monsignor Giovanni Montini—now Pope Paul. This early meeting of the two is one reason why those close to the Vatican feel that Monsignor Cardinale soon will be recognized as one of the new Pope's chief advisers.

Monsignor Montini in those days was acting Co-Secretary of State of the Vatican, one of Pope Pius XII's two main aides. Very likely, that will become Monsignor Cardinale's responsibility now.

Expected to Be Progressive

But in his present post as chief of protocol (the one who arranges the visits of dignitaries to the Vatican), Monsignor Cardinale already has a key role. He is one of the insiders who will help decide the main issues facing the Holy See. All who know the Monsignor believe his influence will be on the side of the progressive trend which Pope John symbolized and which Pope Paul no doubt desires to carry on.

Mrs. Mary Plunkett, College Point housewife who is the Monsignor's cousin, visited him in Rome earlier this year. She noticed that her host had the unusual privilege of a chapel in his apartment, where he can say Mass in private. She saw, too, that there were curious souvenirs of many lands, reflections of the world horizons which have opened to the boy who once talked of little but Ruth and Gehrig, Dempsey and Tunney.

But Mrs. Plunkett is not much of a Roman. She got so lonesome for College Point that she headed back home in three weeks instead of the planned four-week stay.

"I'm so sorry it was such a bad time for me," the Monsignor told her. Pope John had just died, and the Vatican's chief of protocol needed 48 hours in every day. "But, come, at least let me show you the Vatican gardens."

Mrs. Plunkett noticed how doors were flung open as they moved about, but she never knew why her cousin met with such deference. "He never told me anything about what he does," she said. "He never even told me his title."

Outside the Vatican, Monsignor Cardinale is little known. The files of one great New York newspaper boast a half-dozen clippings on almost everyone and shoe-boxesful on the world's great.

But there is only a one-paragraph clipping on Monsignor Cardinale.

Yet those who are "in the know" are aware of him. I asked Robert Moses, head of the 1964 World's Fair, whether he knew of his College Point neighbor who is now such a key personality at the Vatican. It is Moses' job to know who's who at the Vatican and elsewhere. And after all, the fair's most striking single exhibit will be loaned from the Vatican, Michelangelo's Pietà. Did he know Monsignor Cardinale? Indeed he did, he assured me.

Did the Monsignor help get the Pietà for the Fair? That didn't seem a proper question, so I didn't press it. But more and more it is the Monsignor whom Americans inevitably seek out when they need help.

When American-Vatican relations hit a low point in 1950 after the end of the Myron Taylor Presidential mission, it was Monsignor Cardinale who got private calls from American embassy attachés and handled suggestions and requests in a side-door sort of way.

When American tv and radio networks despaired of getting good coverage of the historic Ecumenical Council which began last year and resumes this month, Monsignor Cardinale was the one who convinced traditionalists that he should control such arrangements—and unprecedented good coverage was the result.

When I was president of the foreign correspondents' association in Italy, I tried to lift the traditional ban against cardinals of the Curia facing the give and take of questioning at a press-club luncheon. It was Monsignor Cardinale who urged Pope John to give permission, and Vatican press history was made as a result. Cardinal Bea, head of the religious reunion work, gave us probably the most informative press conference ever held there.

Vital Questions Must Be Faced

In the years ahead, darkly handsome, gray-templed Monsignor Cardinale will stand beside Pope Paul while he faces many monumental questions:

1. What is to be done about Latin America, which already has one-third of the world's Catholics and may soon have half of them? There is an alarming clergy shortage: only one priest for 4,500 Church members, compared with the desired proportion of one for 1,000. And communism is making frightening inroads there.

2. How can the Church cope with the anti-white feeling in Africa and Asia, areas where white missionaries no longer are as welcome as they once were? Pope John increased the number of Negro African bishops from 20 to 61 in less than five years, and the number of Asian bishops from 63 to 91. He created the first Japanese, Filipino, and Central African cardinals in history. Is the trend to continue?

3. What is to be done about de-Italianizing the Vatican? Dutch, German, Austrian, and Belgian Catholics, and, to some extent, American Catholics, favor more internationalization of the Roman Curia and, eventually, of the Papacy itself. Pope Paul, like every Pope since the 16th century, is Italian-born, but he commented before his election: "This may be the time for a non-Italian." The current is running that way.

4. Finally, what greater new role are Americans to play at the Vatican? There had never been an American attaché at the Vatican Secretariat of State until 1924 when Francis Spellman, now New York's cardinal, was named to the post. There never was an American cardinal in the Roman Curia until the past decade when Chicago's Samuel Cardinal Stritch and the Dakotas' Aloysius Cardinal Muench served briefly before their sudden deaths. Will there be a greater American role?

Is an American Pope Possible?

Looking at these questions in reverse order, it is certain that the 45,000,000 American Catholics—who are among the Church's best-educated, best-financed, and most vigorous members—will play a steadily more important role and that the present heavy Italianization will be reversed. Pope Paul was wrong in thinking that a foreign Pope might be elected in this year's conclave. But one of his successors in this century is almost sure to be a non-Italian, perhaps even an American (though the tradition against Popes from politically involved great nations is sure to lessen the chances of even such eminent American Catholic clergymen as St. Louis' Joseph Cardinal Ritter, Chicago's Albert Cardinal Meyer, Atlanta's Archbishop Paul Hallinan, or Pittsburgh's Bishop John Wright).

As for Africa and Asia, Pope Paul, Monsignor Cardinale, and like-thinking liberal prelates are certain to press the policy of consecrating more nonwhite bishops. In Latin America, a steady decentralization of Vatican power is sure to build up the authority of regional conferences of bishops which will be able to act more quickly in seeking to roll back the present array of threats to democracy and the Catholic faith there.

The happy tradition of Pope John will live on. The work of ending centuries-old feuds between the religions will be hastened. A happier inter-faith era is assured.

Among the architects of that brighter future will be studious, gracious Pope Paul, whom I have been lucky enough to know personally, and Monsignor Cardinale, his assistant from College Point who is slated for even more important roles in the ecclesiastical firmament.

In the laundromat the women chat
While their clothes are sloshed and swished.
And surely plenty of dirt comes out,
Including the dirt that's dished.

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

The wife of an American newspaperman assigned to Moscow delayed joining him until he could get an apartment there. After much red tape, he succeeded but wrote his wife a warning note:

"You had better brace yourself for some pretty shabby surroundings—why, it would fall apart if they removed the phone-tap wires."

—George Berhwell

A very dignified gentleman had picked up his wife's shoes from the repair shop but was in too much of a hurry to have them wrapped. As he rushed homeward, a bystander saw the shoes in his hand and called: "That's the idea, mister; don't let her run around on you!"

Hair Lines

Our daughter's tried her hair in braids;
She's had a page-boy bob.
She's swept her hair up sleek and high
And let it fall across one eye
And rolled it in a knob.

She's had a prancing pony tail,
Been trimmed and clipped about.

But mostly it appears her fate
To be in that unlovely state
We know as "growing out."
